4th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Matt 5:1-12

A man thought that he could find happiness in this world so he went after the worldly things of this world. He found out later that worldly happiness was not the key to real happiness.

Jesus, in our gospel, gives us the eight beatitudes.

What is the meaning of the beatitudes?

The beatitudes are happiness and is not according to the definition of this world. It is happiness according to the interpretation of Jesus.

How do we interpret happiness? Do we interpret it according to the standards of this world? Many of us have this mindset of finding happiness in the accumulation of money, power, and having all the material things that this world can offer. These things are not the key to real happiness.

Let us seek our happiness and fulfillment in Jesus and according to the eight beatitudes Jesus has not refused anyone who seek to find their happiness in Him and His teachings.

Let us try to reflect on these pronouncements of Jesus and the beatitudes. We can find true happiness in the beatitudes and In Jesus. Where does our happiness lie right now?

Sunshine Corner

The stores are filled with giant bears, clutching hearts of red and gold. I stare at them for quiet awhile, feeling sad my child’s too old. The shelves are lined with chocolates, all packed in hearts and bows, the candied hearts and flowers are lined up all in rows.

I glance across the isle and cards fill up the store.

Cards of love and hope, and promises of more.

I wonder why it takes a special day to share these special thoughts. I wonder what this world would be if these words would not be bought.

I wonder if we could share this love, a little more than once a year. Give someone a little tiny bear, just because we care.

As the day of love and candied hearts, begins to fill the air, and we hurry to the nearby store to buy that furry bear.

Remember that the words we buy, may be the words we need to say.

Remember sharing heartfelt thoughts doesn’t take a special day. —By Sarah Clark

Elements of the Mass

Episode 11: Unity and Diversity in the Mass:

The Church's most fundamental principle in the celebration of Mass is that of unity. It has no greater interest than to foster unity when remembering the great sacrifice of Christ for love of us. Our harmony with one another sacramentalizes our unity with him. Catholics express this unity by participating in the common texts postures, and gestures.

Saint Pope John XXIII was very clear when in 1959 he urged that Catholics observe "unity in necessary things, liberty in doubtful things, charity in all things – in necessariis unitas, in dubiis libertas, in omnibus caritas."

In the celebration of the liturgy, there remains room for legitimate diversity. As the General Instruction of the Roman Missal notes however, adaptation is not to be arbitrary. From the early days of Christianity, the Church has recommended a common sense approach. Saint Augustine tells us certain things "ought to be observed for the sake of fellowship with those among whom we live."

General Instruction of the Roman Missal

In the celebration of Mass the faithful form a holy people, a people of God's own possession and a royal Priesthood, so that they may give thanks to God and offer the unblemished sacrificial Victim not only by means of the hands of the Priest but also together with him and so that they may learn to offer their very selves. They should, moreover, take care to show this by their deep religious sense and their charity toward brothers and sisters who participate with them in the same celebration.

They are consequently to avoid any appearance of singularity or division, keeping in mind that they have only one Father in heaven and that hence are all brothers or sisters one to the other.

Moreover, they are to form one body, whether in hearing the word of God or in taking part in the prayers and in the singing, or above all by the common offering of the Sacrifice and by participating together at the Lord's table. This unity is beautifully apparent from the gestures and bodily postures observed together by the faithful.
